Washington High School

Washington, North Carolina

THEME

Whether it is expressed through creating a beautiful symphony, interpreting by voice or instrument the inspired composition of a great artist, or enjoying the performances of other people, every human being responds to the universal appeal of the art of music.

Satisfying both in solitude and in society, moving alike in sorrow and gladness, music brings to all humanity rich and inspiring experiences.

Cutting across the barriers of space, language, and ideology, this universal language, music, can be a powerful force in achieving better understanding and deeper appreciation of mankind.

DEDICATION

To HOWARD S. WORTLEY, because he has devoted his unflagging efforts to re-vitalize the Wqshington High School Band and because he has inspired in our community a fuller appreciation of music, we sincerely dedicate this 1949 issue of the PACKROMAK.

CLASS OF '49

*It used to seem forever 'til the day we'd graduate,
Yet the years have all too quickly passed, and now it is our fate
To leave behind forever, all the joys of high school days,
When friends will have to sadly part, and travel different ways,
Knowing things won't be the same, when if by chance they meet.
The memories of what used to be, make meetings bitter-sweet.*

*Our class has had its arguments, and worked together too,
Somehow we always carried out the jobs we had to do.
These years have taught us lessons: to get along with our fellow men,
Not to give up a job, but to fight until we win.
These lessons in life should help us, to make future records fine
As the one we left behind us . . . as the "class of forty-nine."*

ANN FORBES,
Class Poet.

CLASS PROPHECY

My excursion to little America had been a rather chilly one, but it had been very pleasant. I was accompanied by my most efficient secretary, Polly Barrington, and sent by the Big Star newspaper to study the "Home Life of the Penquin."

Our luxury liner would arrive at New York in a few hours, and it was going to be wonderful to be back to civilization. Our last supper aboard was generally known as the "Captain's Supper," and the captain of the U. S. S. Lulu was none other than Buddy Stowe, our old classmate. Our diet of blubber-meat and sourdough for two years was ended with an elite meal prepared by the chief chef, Bennie Ellington. The ship's orchestra, "The Sailor Boys," was directed by L. P. Wheeler and featured Paddy Wilson and Randy Cox as their vocalists. Two dancers, "Stephen and Anna," who we later found out were none other than S. J. Harding and Ann Robbins, gave a beautiful modern dance.

We arrived in New York early the next morning. It seemed ages before we finally docked and then the customs officers had to check our baggage and passports. Robert Sutton and Jim Stanley did this job and they were so nice. . . . they checked ours first. A cab stopped and gave us a ride to our hotel, and we read on the card that the driver's name was Jerry Whitley. After a short chat we arrived at the Hotel Washington Waldorf which is owned by Mr. Charles Smith and Mr. Fred Wall. We registered and Polly noticed that two movie stars were staying there. They were Eugene Flynn, the comedian, and Sara Kelly, the glamorous dream girl of Hollywood. In our luxurious room, we had not even rested one bit before the telephone rang. It was the Editor of the Big Star newspaper, Mr. Houston Smith, and it was grand to hear the big boss's voice. I hadn't even hung the phone up when a call came for Polly. She acted so thrilled, and I could imagine why. It was Dick Hodges, manager of the "Little Play House" on Broadway. He and the star of his latest production, Josh MacKenzie, wanted to see us after the show that night.

Our first stop that morning was at Gloria's Glamor Shop to see Gloria Singleton and also to get something to wear. The chief designer was Bootsie Forbes, and they had built up quite a chain of stores. Josie Neel ran one in Washington, D. C., and Lucille Leggett owned one in Chicago. Gloria always did know all the latest news and with Bootsie to help her, we learned everything. Madeline Hodges is a concert pianist in Carnegie Hall, and Faye Harris is assistant technician to Dr. Adrian Bowen. Cicero Abeyounis, Thomas Jones, and Henry Moore are head scientists at DuPont Company

Braxton O'Neal and James Bridgeman are commercial artists for Look magazine. Louise Whealton, Rachel Crisp, and Bessie Hunnings are happily married and have beautiful homes. We finally got the "new look," assisted by all of Gloria's saleswomen, and decided to walk down Fifth Avenue. We saw the Powers modeling agency and we knew that many of our old girl friends were models there. Carolyn Adams, Shirley Austin, Helen Deans, Christine Toler, Josephine Heath, and Laura Brown were the ones we had seen on magazine covers. Linder Broome had just completed a novel, and it was being published by the Tomlinson Publishing Company owned, of course, by Frank Tomlinson. We passed by these offices and met Joe Hodges, who was working there. He told us how Frank had all his old classmates, Charlie Belote, Clyde Allgood, Kathleen McKeel, Betty Jean Swain, and Polly Sheppard employed there. Joe also said that Mary Elizabeth Little, Vera Hardison, Ruth Caraway, Doris Jackson, Annie Laurie Langley, and Carolyn Hardison are all nurses at Walter Reed Hospital.

We stopped by to see the tallest building in America being erected. The famous architectural firm of Canady and Harris was supplying the plans. Donald and Tommy were also members of the class of '49. We learned from them that Piney Cox was the superintendent of a big Commercial School in New York; and Maxine Roberson and Muriel Woolard were heads of the departments.

When we finally left these famous architects, whom should we run into but Shirley Whitford, a pharmacist for the New York Central Drug Store. She told us that Mary Frances Gerard kept books there and that Billy Cox was sales manager. She also said that Pat Williams was in charge of "Hints for Madame," a program over station W. H. S., and that Faye Swindell was an actress at the same station.

Shirley told us that we could get tickets for the latest movie from Maggie Latham or Mildred Alligood, who were co-owners of a big movie house. It seems that the Senior play gave Clarence Williams the inspiration to become a wrestler, and J. R. Brown acts as his manager.

We got back to our hotel and the topic of conversation was our class and all our classmates. It's funny what time can do and how people can change. Oh well, life's that way.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: If any of this ever happens, please let us know, because it will be a surprise.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

State of North Carolina
County of Beaufort

We, the Senior Class of 1949, being of reasonably sound mind after completing twelve years of bitter struggle, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament. On this 3rd day of June, 1949, we do appoint Mrs. Phebe Emmons and Miss Amy Franklin, our class advisors, as executors of this sacred document.

Item I. To the Junior Class, our rightful heirs, we give, bequeath, and entrust the following parts of our meager estate:

1. The Senior privileges including entering and leaving chapel before other classes.
2. The dignity of the Seniors, mightily preserved and regretfully relinquished.
3. The Senior steps, which are reserved for Seniors only!
4. The pleasure of enjoying the Junior-Senior Banquet next year.

Item II. We give the Sophomore Class the delightful pleasure of raising funds and planning the Junior-Senior of 1950.

Item III. To the Freshman Class we bequeath the dream of some day becoming a mighty and dignified Senior.

Item IV. To our Principal, Superintendent, and teachers we give a fond farewell.

Item V. These personal belongings are left by the Class of 1949 to the Class of 1950.

1. Bootsy Forbes leaves her artistic talent to Emily Bowen.
2. To Jimmy Roberson, J. R. Brown leaves his flirtatious ways.
3. To Reba Tetterton, Christine Toler leaves her good looks.
4. Madeline Hodges bequeaths her highest scholastic average to Mary Jo Paul.
5. Shirley Austin leaves her lasting wit to Joan Patton.
6. To Annie Jean Clark, Linder Broome leaves her musical ability.
7. To Pat Tankard and Myrtle Woolard, Piney Cox leaves her good-looking clothes.
8. Sara Kelly leaves her flirtatious ways to Dixie Ingalls.
9. Jim Stanley leaves his athletic ability to Rudolph Dixon.
10. Faye Harris leaves her position as chief cheerleader to any deserving Junior.
11. To Vera Carney, Nancy Everette, Dora Jackson, Hazel Cherry, and Betty Ellington is left the quietness of Mary Lanier, Maggie Latham, Muriel Woolard, Carol Woolard, Doris Jackson, and Rachel Crisp.
12. To Marie Corey is left the cuteness of Helen Deans.
13. Adrian Bowen leaves his leadership ability to Billy Asby.
14. Louise Whealon leaves her love to James Pilgrim.
15. The wonderful ability of S. J. Harding and Ann Robbins to dance is left to Garland Homes and Mary Anne Swindell.
16. Ben Hodges is left Josh MacKenzie's grand disposition.
17. Josie Neel leaves her gift of gab to Joan Youmans.
18. To Lee Knott and Frances Woolard is left the winning smile of Fred Wall and Dottie Gravelly.
19. The "scatter brain" of Mary Elizabeth Little is left to Betty Ramsay.
20. James Bridgeman, C. E. Alligood, Cicero Abeyounis, and Houston Smith leave their reserved places in the stag line to L. M. Wallace, Bobby Cooper, and Linwood Woolard.
21. To Peggy Cooper and Gwen Richardson, Carolyn Adams leaves her laziness.
22. L. P. Wheeler leaves his car to James Lupton.
23. Waverly Chesson is left Bennie Ellington's good looks.
24. To Rae Crisp, Mildred Alligood leaves her forgetfulness.
25. To Sondra Sheppard, Jo Heath bequeaths her sweet smile.
26. Charlie Smith leaves his car to the Smithsonian Institute and his love to Elise Taylor.
27. Clarence Williams and Vera Hardison leave their parts in the Senior play to Seth Cherry and Bennie Farquharson.
28. Billy Cox gives his "five o'clock shadow" to Shain Jefferies.
29. Henry Moore and Thomas Jones leave their scientific minds to any Juniors who are so innocent-minded as to take Chemistry or Physics.
30. To Nancy Smith and Barbara Woolard, Paddy Wilson leaves her back-breaking job of editor of the Packromak.
31. The true, undying love of Dick Hodges and Polly Barrington is left to Florence Williams and Bobby Hardison.
32. Joe Hodges leaves his delightful laugh to Lillian Leggette.
33. Buddy Stowe leaves his love to Estelle Baker.
34. Kathleen McKeel's drawl is left to Doris Ann Hall.
35. Annie Laurie Langley's sweet disposition is left to Marilyn Watson.
36. To Croom Rodman, Bud Flynn leaves his innocent ways.
37. Charlie Belote, Robert Sutton, and Donald Canady leave their mechanical drawing ability to Bud Lynch.
38. Frank Tomlinson leaves his friendly manner to Betty Ann Swindell.
39. To Hilda Mizelle and Alice Cherry, Ruth Carraway gives her reserved character.
40. Braxton O'Neal leaves his school bus to Durwood Hodges.
41. Gloria Singleton's giggle is left to Julia Hoyt.
42. Shirley Whitford and Bessie Hunnings leave their wit to some unsuspecting Junior.
43. Pat Williams leaves her nickname "Agonia."

PINEY COX, Testator.

WITNESSES: PADDY WILSON, PAT WILLIAMS.

TO THE JUNIORS

Here's a salute to the class of '50
From the class of '49,
A group with which we've worked for years
None other could be so fine.

We're privileged to hand over
Our duties to you all,
For we know you'll be successful
When you begin "your year" next fall.

a joy to drive... the Jeepster

Here's a car you will drive just for the fun of getting there! It's the Jeepster—powered by the spirited high-compression 'Jeep' Engine with overdrive for extra smoothness and economy. Its fleet lines and hug-the-road styling reflect its balance and roadability, and once behind the wheel you know that here at last is the car you have wanted all the time. Come in and see the Jeepster now.
